

I am sending this comment to prevent the Consumer Bankers Association from weakening the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law. Prior to the law being enacted our phone rang so much we could hardly relax or eat dinner. Since the law was enacted, intrusions to our home privacy have been very minimal. The peace has been very welcomed. This has been one government action that has improved our everyday lives. Please do not let these intrusions re-occur. We pay for our phone service and we should be able to control it as we see fit. We pay for our home and our privacy should not be violated. Please do not weaken the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law.

Thank you for your time.

Wayne Norman
